MODERN BLUEBEARD GOES ON TRIAL TODAY IN FRENCH COURT

IS ACCUSED OF MURDERING ELEVEN WOMEN OF 238 BETHROTHED TO HIM

LURED WOMEN MOSTLY WEALTHY THROUGH MATRIMONIAL AGENCIES—MURDERED THEM

(By United Press)

Versailles, France, Nov. 7.—Hemil Landrau, the twentieth century Don Juan, went on trial at noon today.

Known as the "Bluebeard of Gambai Villa," Landrau was to be charged with the charge of murdering eleven of the 238 women of all ages who were alleged to have become betrothed to him. This trial is the strangest case in modern criminal history.

Landrau is 53 years of age, squat figure, bushy black beard—in fact, the exact antithesis of the legendary Don Juan—will be convicted of luring women, mostly wealthy, from 20 to 60 years of age, for their fortunes.

Matrimonial agencies are alleged to have been the agencies through which he worked.

He is said to have compelled the women to convert their money into cash. Records will be produced to show that he always purchased only one return ticket.

Most of the women to whom the modern Don Juan is alleged to have been betrothed, have disappeared. Three pounds of charred bones taken from the stove, and alleged to be human, will be produced as evidence against him. Also, a note book will be produced in which he is said to have entered particulars regarding his various fiancées as evidence against him.

Madame Landrau, in an interview, declared that she did not believe him guilty, and pointed out that the stove from which they took the ashes was too small to admit a woman's body.

One hundred and thirty witnesses have been produced. The various documents to be introduced by the prosecution against him total more than 70,000 pages.

Plans were made for Shamblin to repeat his tale of the murder before the grand jury today or tomorrow. He was arrested in Cincinnati Saturday night.

Shamblin's curiosity resulted in a double murder according to the account of Sheriff Richer, who made the arrest. The night of Oct. 28, Shamblin was on his way to visit relatives when he passed an abandoned cabin. He noticed an automobile outside, and entered to investigate.

He said a brick was thrown at him, and he opened fire at the silhouetted figures. The third shot Newman fell to the floor. When Miss Doyle attempted to flee, he grabbed her and killed her, and then he confessed.

RAIL STRIKE VOTE THREAT IS REVIVED

BROTHERHOODS, IN LETTERS TO LOCALS, DECLARES LABOR BOARD MADE PROMISES

Chicago, Nov. 7.—Threat to revive the railroad strike vote and "use it if necessary" is contained in a memorandum which has been sent out to all local and general chairmen of the Big Five transportation brotherhoods.

The memorandum signed by the five union chiefs, undertakes to explain to the membership why the strike was called off. This explanation features "promises made by the (United States) railway labor board" but it also calls attention to the fact that strike leaders were in imminent danger of arrest on conspiracy charges.

Members of the labor board denied that any promise had been officially made to the train service men. In a statement issued during the last days of the strike crisis, the labor board pointed out that the docket was so crowded that necessarily a considerable time must elapse before cases involving further railway wage reductions could be considered. It is presumably upon this the brotherhood leaders found their claim of a "promise."

That there will be another railway wage controversy in the near future seems inevitable. Many railroads already have taken the first steps to press the proposal for an additional 10 per cent wage cut. And there are indications that the labor board docket is rapidly being cleared of pending cases. On Friday 97 disputes were disposed of.

A decision on the working rules in dispute will be handed down within three weeks, it has been announced.

FRENCH PREMIER ARRIVES IN NEW YORK; QUIET WELCOME

(By United Press)

New York, Nov. 7.—Aristide Briand landed in New York today quietly and unostentatiously.

The premier, enroute to Washington as a delegate to the arms conference, had let it be known that in keeping with his policy he cared for no elaborate welcome.

In sharp contrast to the wild enthusiasm with which Marshal Foch was received, the reception when Premier Briand walked down the gang plank, was extremely decorous.

There were only eleven persons on the pier aside from the small welcome party and the police.

Earth Not Losing Internal Heat. Discoveries about radium throw doubts upon the old belief that the earth is steadily losing its internal heat. There is little chance that the trial would actually open today, however, as attorneys had agreed to continue the case to next Monday. The agreement still needed formal sanction from the court, which was expected to constitute all new proceedings.

Trial Set For Nov. 14

Trial of Roscoe Arbuckle was continued until Monday, Nov. 14th.

Questions Validity of Grain Regulation Law

(By United Press)

Chicago, Nov. 7.—The validity of the regulation of grain under the Capper-Tincher law, effective Dec. 4, was scheduled for argument before Judge Landis.

The bill touching the constitutionality of the trading act was filed by John Hill, former member of the Chicago board of trade. This is the first suit to test the law in this respect. The chief arguments will be that the new law interferes with interstate commerce and is illegal.

Suit Is Dismissed

Judge Landis today dismissed the suit against the Capper-Tincher law for the regulation of grain, hearing to be Dec. 4th.

This action was taken on consent of attorneys for both parties in order to allow the matter to be brought up before the United States supreme court immediately.

ARGUE VALIDITY OF N. D. GRAIN LAW ON NOVEMBER 14TH

Washington, Nov. 7.—Argument of the validity of the North Dakota non-partisan grain elevator law was set for Nov. 14th by the supreme court today. The court declined to grant a stay of a lower court holding against the law.

During the first battle of the Marne Foch reported to Joffre that his right was crumpled and his line was in retreat but he was attacking with his centre. Such was the spirit of the soldier, of Napoleonic daring, skill and audacity, and of a greatness of soul unachieved by the earlier French master of arms, whom America is now delighted to honor.

BANDIT TIES UP 7 MAIL CLERKS; GETS $300,000

ROBBER, SINGLE HANDED, STAGES SPECTACULAR HOLDUP ON SANTA FE TRAIN

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 7.—Poses scoured the country around Holiday, Kan., Saturday night for a masked bandit who robbed a mail car on Santa Fe train No. 8, of $300,000 in registered mail.

The bandit entered the car near Ottawa and tied seven mail clerks. He escaped with three registered mail pouches.

Two hundred and eight pieces of registered mail comprised the loot, it was said. An investigation was started to find out why the door of the car happened to be left open.

The robbery was as spectacular as any in the days of the Doolins and the Daltons in the southwest. When the door of the mail car was opened at Ottawa Junction to throw out a sack of mail, it was left standing slightly ajar.

As the train had gained speed out of the junction, the robber stepped from behind a row of mail sacks and commanded the seven clerks in the car to throw up their hands.

After forcing Earl E. Donnda, a clerk to tie the six other clerks and place sacks over their heads, the robber coolly tied Donnda whom he warned against "monkey business" and began rifling mail sacks.

After ripping and rifling three sacks of registered mail and stuffing packages and letters in his pockets, he left the train as it slowed down near Holiday.

The seven mail clerks were found tied and gagged when the train pulled into Union station here. Investigation was started when the door failed to open.

Sleepy Eye, Minn., Nov. 7.—Frank Miller, aged 34, held for Kansas authorities on a charge of wife desertion, escaped from jail last night. Deputy McKnight, of Eldorado, Kan., arrived to claim the prisoner.
Miller was arrested Friday noon at a cottage near here, where he was living with Minnie Swing, 16, as man and wife. The girl said she is his step-daughter. The chief of police said some friend had furnished Miller with a key to his cell, and he walked to freedom while the night watchman was making his rounds of the city. Miller left Eldorado about a month ago with his step-daughter, according to Deputy McKnight. His wife charges desertion.
The man and girl had been working on the farm of H. G. Davis for three weeks, and were living in a small cottage on the farm. Miller was arrested and the girl was taken into custody. She is held in a private home for the police. The federal authorities may be called in.

FRENCH PREMIER ARRIVES IN NEW YORK; QUIET WELCOME

(By United Press.)
New York, Nov. 7.—Aristide Briand landed in New York today quietly and unostentatiously.
The premier, enroute to Washington as a delegate to the arms conference, had let it be known that in keeping with his policy he cared for no elaborate welcome.
In sharp contrast to the wild enthusiasm with which Marshal Foch was received, the reception when Premier Briand walked down the gang plank, was extremely decorous.
There were only eleven persons on the pier aside from the small welcome party and the police.

Earth Not Losing Internal Heat.
Discoveries about radium throw doubts upon the old belief that the earth is steadily losing its internal heat. If there is as much radioactive matter per unit volume throughout the interior of the globe as has been found in its crust, the earth is actually heating up by virtue of the heat given off by this substance in the process of disintegration.

San Francisco, Nov. 7.—Roscoe Arbuckle was to be called into court today for trial on a charge of manslaughter growing out of the death of the beautiful Virginia Rappe, actress, following a party in the rooms of Roscoe Arbuckle on Labor Day.
There is little chance that the trial would actually open today, however, as attorneys had agreed to continue the case to next Monday. The agreement still needed formal sanction from the court, which was expected to constitute all new proceedings.
Trial Set For Nov. 14
Trial of Roscoe Arbuckle was continued until Monday, Nov. 14th.

ARGUE VALIDITY OF N. D. GRAIN LAW ON NOVEMBER 14TH

(By United Press.)
Washington, Nov. 7.—Argument of the validity of the North Dakota non-partisan grain elevator law was set for Nov. 14th by the supreme court today. The court declined to grant a stay of a lower court holding against the law.
During the first battle of the Marne Foch reported to Joffre that his right was crumpled and his line was in retreat but he was attacking with his centre. Such was the spirit of the soldier, of Napoleonic daring, skill and audacity, and of a greatness of soul unachieved by the earlier French master of arms, whom America is now delighted to honor.

A Middletown, N. Y., dispatch tells of the demise of an old Horse Thief Detecting Society owing to the driving out of horses by automobiles. Surely there is still room for such a society—with a slight alteration in its title. The stolen motor-cars outnumber the stolen horses.

Harding Proclaims Armistice Day As Holiday; Two Minute Silence Urged For War Dead

Washington, Nov. 7.—President Harding issued a proclamation declaring Armistice Day, Nov. 11, a holiday. This, the president set forth, is a "mark of respect to the memory of those who gave their lives in the late world war, as typified by the unknown and unidentified American soldier who is to be buried in Arlington national cemetery on that day."

President Harding recommended that "all public and church bells throughout the country be tolled at intervals" between 11:45 a. m. and 12 noon, eastern time, and that from noon until two minutes thereafter the entire country observe a period of silence as a tribute to those who gave their lives in the war.
The proclamation reads:
"Now, therefore, I, Warren G. Harding, president of the United States of America, in pursuance of the said joint resolution of congress, do hereby declare Nov. 11 1921 a holiday as a mark of respect to the memory to those who gave their lives in the late world war, as typified by the unknown and unidentified American soldier who is to be buried in Arlington national cemetery on that day; and do hereby recommend to the governors of the several states that proclamations be issued by them calling upon people of their respective states to pause in their usual pursuits as a mark of respect on this solemn occasion.
"And, in order that the solemnity of the occasion may be further emphasized, I do hereby furthermore recommend that all public and church bells throughout the United States be tolled at intervals between 11:45 o'clock a. m. and 12 o'clock noon of the said day, and that from 12 o'clock noon to two minutes past that hour, Washington time, all devout and patriotic citizens of the United States indulge in a period of silent thanks to God for these valuable valorous lives and of supplication for His divine mercy and for His blessings upon our beloved country."

After forcing Earl E. Donnda, a clerk to tie the six other clerks and place sacks over their heads, the robber coolly tied Donnda whom he warned against "monkey business" and began rifling mail sacks.

The seven mail clerks were found tied and gagged when the train pulled into Union station here. Investigation was started when the door failed to open.

BANDIT TIES UP 7 MAIL CLERKS; GETS $300,000

ROBBER, SINGLE HANDED, STAGES SPECTACULAR HOLDUP ON SANTA FE TRAIN

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 7.—Posses scoured the country around Holiday, Kan., Saturday night for a masked bandit who robbed a mail car on Santa Fe train No. 8, of $300,000 in registered mail.
The bandit entered the car near Ottawa and tied seven mail clerks. He escaped with three registered mail pouches.
Two hundred and eight pieces of registered mail comprised the loot, it was said. An investigation was started to find out why the door of the car happened to be left open.
The robbery was as spectacular as any in the days of the Doolins and the Daltons in the southwest. When the door of the mail car was opened at Ottawa Junction to throw out a sack of mail, it was left standing slightly ajar.
As the train had gained speed out of the junction, the robber stepped from behind a row of mail sacks and commanded the seven clerks in the car to throw up their hands.

After forcing Earl E. Donnda, a clerk to tie the six other clerks and place sacks over their heads, the robber coolly tied Donnda whom he warned against "monkey business" and began rifling mail sacks.
After ripping and rifling three sacks of registered mail and stuffing packages and letters in his pockets, he left the train as it slowed down near Holiday.
The seven mail clerks were found tied and gagged when the train pulled into Union station here. Investigation was started when the door failed to open.

A new style of heating is being installed in the Northwestern hospital unit now under course of construction in this city. John O. Cederberg Jr., of St. Paul is the architect of the building and W. D. MacLeith of St. Paul, architect and engineer, is the general superintendent in charge of construction and of installation of mechanical equipment.

Roof Inspected

A Dispatch representative in company with Dr. Joseph Nicholson of the hospital and Mr. MacLeith inspected the building and the roof. At the latter place workmen were enclosing same and one had a glimpse of the various heavily enclosed pipe lines, part of the heating system.

Overhead Vacuum System

An overhead vacuum system of heating is being installed by which steam rises to the attic and thence

The elevator is of sufficient size to carry a person on a stretcher, two attendants and the elevator man and is of the easy starting and easy landing, non-jar type.

All radiators throughout the hospitals are hung upon wall brackets so as to enable cleaning underneath, assuring the highest sanitation.

MISS CARRIE MINICH TO SPEAK

Introductory Lecture to be Followed by Talks on "Interior Decoration", "Oriental Rugs", Etc.

The Study class of the Brainerd Musical club will hold its first meeting at three o'clock p. m., Armistice Day, at the Chamber of Commerce.

Miss Carrie Minich will give a talk on "Art in the Home". Miss Minich is the Art Supervisor of the St. Cloud Normal, but formerly held that position in the Brainerd public schools.

This introductory lecture will be followed by talks on "Interior Decoration", "Oriental Rugs", "Artistic Domestic Rugs", "Period Furniture", "Pottery", and "Pictures We Like to Live With". There will be one meeting a month. Some of the talks will be given by outside talent, and some by specially qualified home talent.

The regular Musical club ticket admits to this course but all those who are planning to attend are requested to give their names to some member of the literary committee, in order that the time and place of meeting may be adjusted to suit the greatest number of members. If many wish to attend who are employed during the day, an attempt will be made to hold the meetings in the evening. The size of the audience will also have something to do with determining the place of meeting. The members of the literary committee are Mrs. A. C. Weber, Mrs. T. E. Jones, Mrs. C. H. Mills, Mrs. G. I. Badeaux, Miss Barbara Armstrong, Miss Mary Tornstrom, Mrs. W. C. Cobb, Mrs. R. E. Cody.

It is particularly fitting that after honoring, on Armistice Day, the boys who fought to defend American homes, the afternoon should be spent in learning how to make that home more attractive.

There are three boilers as a heating unit; one boiler is a super smokeless type with 8,000 feet of direct radiation capacity. Pressure can be maintained up to 10 pounds, but it will not be necessary to carry on an average over three pounds of steam.

There are two high pressure Kewanee boilers in the boiler room. These two will be used in coldest weather, with the large one as auxiliary. The high pressure, in other words, will be used in the coldest weather and the other system for ordinary weather.

Power House

Surmounting the power house will be a chimney of 65 feet or more in height. A tunnel will connect the power plant with the building. It will be thoroughly insulated and is called a "pine log".

The forming of water pockets will be absolutely eliminated, and will do away with any pounding of radiators. All risers are made through three swing expansion joint so as to allow complete expansion risers and mains, while branches are restrained against expansion.

The underground pipe conduit is made of split tile covered with 85 per cent magnesia covering and placed practically below the frost line. It is set on concrete foundations every ten feet and properly drained. The entire mains in the attic are covered with a similar material three-quarters of an inch thick.

Steam Vacuum

The steam vacuum follows through the "log" into the building. It rises through the main standpipe to the attic, where through an insulated main it is distributed through the building. It enters in the rear and flows forward where all waters of condensation are trapped and returned through natural risers back to the system, while the steam used in the various floors likewise travels downward through various radiators back to the return.

The new system of heating is advisable because it eliminates any

All headers in the boiler room are covered and insulated against any cold to give the greatest efficiency in heat units against the cold. The heating plant is required to perform and insure absolute delivery of 70 degrees Fahrenheit under all conditions of exterior weather.

Plumbing

Work of installing the plumbing is also under way. The hot water to various fixtures is a re-circulating system taking its cold water from an overhead storage plant. The re-circulating lines run in conduits.

All plumbing is being installed to comply with St. Paul and Minneapolis city ordinances.

All water closets are silent-action. The plumbing fixtures are the equal of any used in the northwest.

There Was a Reason

"Why do you turn out for every road hog that comes along?" said the missus, rather crossly. "The right-of-way is ours, isn't it?"

"Here lies the body of William Jay, Who died maintaining his right-of-way; He was right! dead right, as he sped along. But he's just as dead as if he'd been wrong."

All In a Day's Sport

FEDERAL ROAD BILL O. K.

To the surprise of every one, the Senate unexpectedly took up the $75,000,000 good roads bill for Federal aid and passed it, and it now goes before President Harding for approval. Considerable delay had been anticipated because of the jam of legislation in the senate, and the friends of the bill are consequently highly elated over their success.

The big winter program mapped out by the Minnesota Highway department will be launched at once, with nearly $6,000,000 available for road work, and the unemployment situation in the state will be appreciably relieved. Under the provisions of this bill the state will now receive $2,341,466 as its share, and doubling this by an equal amount from the state treasury. Minnesota will spend more than $5,500,000 on her roads.

It is already announced that road work that had begun to lag with the approach of winter will now be speeded up, and more men will be employed. Grading in heavy cuts, hauling of sand, rock and gravel, and a general campaign of preparation will be made throughout the cold weather. Contracts will be advertised for at once, and by working all winter the Highway Commissioner expects when spring comes to have everything in shape to push a lot of paving to completion.

TO CURB RUM-RUNNING

An effort is to be made by the government on the Canadian and United States sides of the international boundary to supplement one another's liquor laws, in order that rum-running and bootlegging may be further curbed. This was, in effect, decided upon at a convention of international prohibition officials held at Regina, Canada, a few days ago.

The United States government, it is understood, will be asked not to grant any more permits for the shipment of liquor from the Canadian side except with the consent of the provincial authorities effected. The Canadian government, on the other hand, will be asked not to release liquor from bond to be shipped across to the American side, where it can be sold illegally.

It appears from statements made at this meeting that government control of liquor in British Columbia has not curtailed the bootlegging industry in that province, and 400,000 cases of liquor have been shipped into the coast provinces from Saskatchewan liquor warehouses since the government of that province assumed control of the business. This liquor, it is claimed, has been used for shipment into the United States and to supply the bootlegging industry in other Canadian provinces.

LOWER ORE RATE WANTED

The mining companies operating on the Minnesota ranges are interested in the outcome of the hearing in the case before the Interstate Commerce Commission seeking a reduction in freight rates on iron ore from the Minnesota mines to the loading docks. This case is scheduled to come up for a hearing in Chicago on Nov. 16.

It is hoped by the mine owners that a reduction will be ordered from the present basis of $1.00 that has been in force during the last two seasons. The officials of the mining companies claim that if the railroad companies were able to show profits in moving ore from the mines to the docks at the former basis of 60 cents a ton, the present war figure of $1.00 is not warranted under present trade conditions.

COAL STOCKS FAIRLY LARGE.

The miners' strike on the edge of winter is causing everybody to look up the coal supply. There is an abundant supply for the wants of the Northwest on the docks at the head of the lakes, it is claimed.

Throughout the country, coal stocks are fairly large, according to a study made by the National Coal Association. It is estimated that retail coal yards have a three weeks' supply on hand, though domestic consumers probably have less in their own bins, while public utilities, gas and electric plants, have reserves sufficient for between two and four months, and railroads have a six weeks' stock stored, not including what is constantly on supply cars.

HOME TOWN PAPER WEEK

It is very rare that the average newspaper boosts its own business, but it gives quantities of space in boosting the affairs of others. Somebody suggested that it was time for the newspapers of the country to adopt a week in which their own business should be given precedence, and the Brainerd Dispatch thoroughly endorses the idea.

The date set is this week, from the 7th to the 12th of November, including that great world event, Armistice Day.

The official title for the week is "Subscribe for Your Home Town Paper" week.

Thousands of papers join in this event. Ever ready to help in any cause that is in the interests of a better community, better living conditions, and better government, we now ask the readers and advertisers of the Brainerd Dispatch to turn in and lend a hand during "Subscribe for Your Home Town Paper" week, and boost for us.

President Harding's statement that the administration expects to effect an aggregate reduction in government expenditures for the fiscal year of 1922 of $439,000,000, instead of its previous estimated reduction of $350,000,000, is in pleasing contrast to the welter of waste and reckless extravagance that characterized the Wilson administration.

It is announced that at the rate checks are being received the $25,000 quota of the $100,000 Michael Dowling fund, underwritten by the Minnesota Bankers' association, will be paid by Nov. 10. "Mike" was popular both as a banker and an editor—an unusual combination.

The St. Cloud Commercial club has inaugurated a campaign to relieve unemployment, which proves that it is a live, wide-awake organization.

Love's Penalty at New Park

Hope Hampton in "Love's Penalty," a production of strong dramatic tenacity, is the attraction today and tomorrow at the New Park.

The beautiful young star enacts a role which will bring a quick thrill of sympathy from anyone who can realize the aftermath to careless treatment of a young girl's love. Miss Hampton portrays the role of Janis Clayton, whose younger sister loves her employer Steven Saunders. On the day Saunders marries another for social and financial gains, the sister is found dead with a poison bottle nearby. The mother of the two girls bears the tragedy but a week and then dies.

Nearly crazed with grief Janis swears vengeance, and plans punishment for Saunders which is unique but far more effective than bodily injury could be. It will rob him of his social position, his business reputation, and the love of his wife and little son. Janis cares not that it may also cost her the thing most dear to a woman, her good name.

Fate steps in to save Janis from herself in a moment of magnificent power.

Percy Marmont, Virginia Valli, Irma Harrison, Jack O'Brien and Mrs. Phillip Landau are prominent in the supporting cast.

"Freckles" Here Again

Wesley Barry, Marshall Neilan's starlet, and prominently known as "the freckle-faced kid of the movies," met with an accident when he fell from his horse during the filming of "Bob Hampton of Placer," coming to the New Park theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

Wes was pretty well shaken up and had to go to bed for a day. The net casualty was the loss of two freckles resulting from him remaining out of the sun for twenty-four hours. Accidents are costly to these movie stars.

"Heart of Maryland"

"The Heart of Maryland," an elaborate film version of the famous stage play of the same name by David Belasco, will be shown at the Lyceum theatre tonight and Tuesday.

The screen version, on account of the greater scope of the film field, will surpass the stage version in many respects and equal it in all others. Catherine Calvert, the Vitagraph star, heads an all-star cast in the role of Maryland Calvert. In her notable company are Crane Wilbur as leading man, Felix Krenbs, William Collier, Jr., Ben Lyon, Bernard Segel, Henry Hallam, Warner Richmond, Marguerite Sanchez and hundreds of minor characters.

The picture has been nearly six months in the making. It has the advantage over the stage production of showing thrilling scenes in the great struggle between the North and the South that only could be produced on the screen. The entire company went south in order to get the proper scenery and "atmosphere" for backgrounds and was fortunate enough to enlist the sympathy and therefore the help of real southerners.

The picture has been made on a tremendous scale, and no expense or time was spared to make the locale and costumes exactly as they were during the Civil War, even to the extent of restoring dilapidated buildings and getting old Confederate uniforms and costumes out of cedar chests.

"BIRDIOLA"

By LILLIAN CYR.

(©, 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Theed, in spotless white flannels, sauntered aimlessly down the sun-baked sidewalk in Newspaper Row. It was June, and the abhorred quest for education was temporarily suspended. In September he would enter Worcester high, as a junior, an estimable acquisition in Theed's opinion. He slowed down to a halt in front of a hitching post, and, having languidly reached out for its iron ring, he twirled it absently.

He was in one of those day dreams boys have. His eyes remained open; but he saw nothing. It has to be admitted that three-quarters of Theed's dreams, waking and sleeping, were of Anita, the girl who wore his fraternity pin, and whose lovely hand he had kissed in a pageant in which they had been the star performers.

He turned back up Newspaper row and down Old South to Anita's home. He hesitated with bewildering indecision at her gate, shyness or some other boyish attribute, having seized him; then he walked away. He soon returned, playing a melancholy air on a newly bought small instrument of baked clay, called a "Birdiola," said instrument containing ten holes for ten fingers and capable of a series of weird and depressing whistling tones.

He had nearly passed the house when Anita hailed him from the piazza.

"C'm on up, and have some lemonade," she invited.

He pocketed his instrument and sank down in a comfortable wicker chair, while the little hostess presided over the drinks and edibles.

"What is it?" asked Anita, not without some curiosity, "that thing you were blowing?"

"This," said Theed, holding up the instrument, and adopting the manner and the fluency of the young clerk in the music store who sold it to him, "is a 'birdiola,' an instrument of rare qualities. From it one may induce the calls, the whistles of any bird, or all birds—"

"Here comes Fred. Hello, Freddie," called Anita sweetly. "Oh, I'm so glad you brought your clarinet."

"Hello, Laurie, ol' top," said Fred, gayly.

"How d'y do," Theed responded, stiffly. He thoroughly disliked Fred and his clarinet.

A bit later the two boys rose to go. "I'm glad you boys are coming to my party," smiled Anita, "and Freddie, bring your clarinet."

The day for Anita's party arrived. Theed made an elaborate toilet and proceeded to Anita's.

A few minutes before the dancing began Theed made his way to Anita's side to claim her first dance.

"I just promised Fred," said Anita. "You promised it to me Monday afternoon when we were sitting in the hammock. Don't you remember?"

asked Theed, pained that she should have forgotten that wondrous incident. "No."

"Well, this is my dance, Anita. You promised me first," Theed declared stubbornly.

"Here comes Fred. Hurry, Theed. Find a partner before the dance begins."

Theed stared at her in amazement. "Very well," he said coldly.

And he did find a partner. A visiting girl received him tenderly.

At first he was a bit bored, his mind more on Anita's behavior than the lively talk of his companion, but she really was interesting, and Theed could not help coming out of his sad mood.

Great was Anita's indignation to find him so absorbed in that visitor that he had not returned to her for a single dance.

During an intermission Anita had Fred play his clarinet. At the first soft tentative toot Theed rose and slipped out of the room.

Fred was part through his ovation when he was startled by the wild trilling of a bobolink, which was repeated at intervals to the end of his recital. In several parts of his song sheeplike bleats and "moos" suggestive of cows exchanged places with the short, tentative toots and issued from his clarinet in rural discord. At the end of the song, however, polite clapping greeted Fred.

"Anita," he begged, "explain to them. That bird outside. Oh, my reputation's lost!" He was breathless and his complexion assumed a bright pink.

"Just then through the open window there floated a melancholy air. Both Fred and Anita recognized the dreadful whistling tones as those of Theed's 'birdiola.' Fred was angry. Anita was pleased at Theed's flare of jealousy.

The mournful tone was touching, even if the tones were depressing. Anita ran out on the piazza and shut the screen door softly behind her.

"Theed," she called tremulously.

Anita sat down in a chair beside him. "Play for me," she commanded.

Theed brightened visibly and raised the "birdiola" to his lips.

Light-hearted once more, the depressing whistling tones of the "birdiola" grated on Anita's sensibilities.

"Theed," she said solemnly, "your 'birdiola' has become very dear to us. Please give it to me and I will keep it and cherish it forever and ever."

A wise little miss, Anita. She was insuring quiet enjoyment for herself in Theed's future visits. It was true that the instrument had bridged the estrangement between them, but it was a "birdiola."

FEDERAL ROAD BILL O. K.

To the surprise of every one, the Senate unexpectedly took up the $75,000,000 good roads bill for Federal aid and passed it, and it now goes before President Harding for approval. Considerable delay had been anticipated because of the jam of legislation in the senate, and the friends of the bill are consequently highly elated over their success.

The big winter program mapped out by the Minnesota Highway department will be launched at once, with nearly $6,000,000 available for road work, and the unemployment situation in the state will be appreciably relieved. Under the provisions of this bill the state will now receive $2,841,466 as its share, and doubling this by an equal amount from the state treasury. Minnesota will spend more than $5,500,000 on her roads.

It is already announced that road work that had begun to lag with the approach of winter will now be speeded up, and more men will be employed. Grading in heavy cuts, hauling of sand, rock and gravel, and a general campaign of preparation will be made throughout the cold weather. Contracts will be advertised for at once, and by working all winter the Highway Commissioner expects when spring comes to have everything in shape to push a lot of paving to completion.

TO CURB RUN-RUNNING

An effort is to be made by the government on the Canadian and United States sides of the international boundary to supplement one another's liquor laws, in order that run-running and bootlegging may be further curbed. This was, in effect, decided upon at a convention of international prohibition officials held at Regina, Canada, a few days ago.

The United States government, it is understood, will be asked not to grant any more permits for the shipment of liquor from the Canadian side except with the consent of the provincial authorities effected. The Canadian government, on the other hand, will be asked not to release liquor from bond to be shipped across to the American side, where it can be sold illegally.

It appears from statements made at this meeting that government control of liquor in British Columbia has not curtailed the bootlegging industry in that province, and 400,000 cases of liquor have been shipped into the coast provinces from Saskatchewan liquor warehouses since the government of that province assumed control of the business. "MORE LIGHT ON SUBJECT"

Brainerd Photographic Studio Equipped With Up-to-the Minute Accessories

At the photographers' convention, held at the Curtis hotel, Minneapolis, in October, a number of recent inventions were shown, among them the Wagenhorst Hi-Power twin are lamp, a machine producing from 10,000 to 50,000 candle power.

Miss Marie Canan, pioneer photographer of this city, was in attendance at the convention, and was so impressed with the unusual lighting effects produced by the use of this machine that upon her return she had one installed in her studio in the Walverman block.

Miss Mabel Sheffield was the first to pose under the new light, a number of attractive pictures being secured. Though the light is very powerful, with the aid of a diffuser or tracing cloth screen the very softest kind of lighting effects are readily obtainable and without the use of the diffuser some of the most splendid sunlight effects can be produced.

On dark or cloudy days, or in the late afternoon, snap shots can now be taken of children, and this light is especially fine for groups. Miss Canan has another important addition to her studio apparatus, a large reflector, mounted on an adjustable standard. With this mirror artistic effects are gained, the light being under the absolute control of the operator. With it, in conjunction with the Tyin Arc lamp, a halo of light can be thrown around the head of the sitter, or the profile can be brought out in soft light against a dark background.

And speaking of backgrounds, these are now painted on grass cloth, and can be rolled up with no thought of wrinkling. The rough surface of the weave gives the effect of tapestry. One of these was noted while visiting the studio, also a special child's background.

Miss Canan has been in the photographic business since early girlhood being first associated with John A. McCoil, and later, buying out his interest, establishing a studio of her own.

The art of photography is a comparatively recent one, though it would be difficult to fix a date when what we now know as "photographic action" was first recorded. No doubt the tanning of the skin by the sun's rays was what was first noticed. However, to England belongs the honor of first producing a photograph. Later, Daguerre experimented with his photographs on metal. At that time the length of exposure was very great, Daguerre remarking that "the time required to procure a photographic copy of a landscape is from seven to eight hours, but single objects, when strongly lighted by the sun, can be taken in three hours."

Now, photographs are taken at lightning speed, of high jumps in mid-air, express trains racing, and cameras are placed on swift-moving automobiles, recording every movement of races and other activities.

Sweeney Says:

Now is the time to do the "fixing up" for winter around the house. We can supply you with tar-paper, nails, window-glass, etc., at fair prices.

DISTRICT COURT PROCEEDINGS

Case of Miller Vs. Osterlund, Civil Case Was Called Early on Monday Morning

FREEMAN VS. ERICKSON TO JURY

Tony Skull, Charged With Grand Larceny in the Second Degree, Pleads Not Guilty

In district court before Judge W. S. McClenahan, the case of Freeman et al vs. Erickson et al went to the jury at about 10:30 o'clock.

The case of Miller vs Osterlund was called Monday morning. Harrison B. Sherwood of Long Prairie appears for the plaintiffs and H. E. Peterson of Crosby for the defendant. This case was tried once before, went to the state supreme court and is being tried again.

The complaint charges that on September 6, 1919 the defendant made and delivered to the Guardian Food Co. his promissory note of $127.50 due in 60 days, and that an additional sum of 5 per cent was due should suit be started for collection. Prior to maturity the Guardian Food Co. endorsed said note to the plaintiffs, G. L. and L. J. Miller. A second note, it appears, is also involved in the suit.

The defendant, who conducts a drug store in Deerpark, in his answer states that the Guardian Food Co. solicited him to buy some of its stock food and sell the same to his customers.

The answer recites "that as an inducement to said purchase the company agreed to insure livestock of purchasers against all losses whatsoever, provided he used the stock food according to directions."

"That said company falsely represented", it is further alleged in the answer, "to defendant that it had authority and right to do business in the state of Minnesota and the authority and right to execute the insurance above described in Minnesota, notwithstanding it was a foreign company with its offices in Indianapolis, Indiana. The company further represented, it is alleged in the answer, that it would not sell or negotiate said note. It is further alleged the company had no right to issue such insurance, that the sale of stock food with insurance is unlawful."

The jury was chosen this morning and after a short period was withdrawn while the lawyers argued a motion.

Pleads Not Guilty

Tony Skull, charged with grand larceny in the second degree, pleaded not guilty.

Remarkable Record

A remarkable record achieved by County Attorney S. F. Alderman relates to the criminal cases and indictments returned by the grand jury. Out of eight indictments returned, five defendants have appeared before the court and pleaded guilty.

That passage of literary brickbats between Bernard Shaw and Harry Arthur Jones has reached the stage of the following picturesquely phrased exchange: "The hag Sedition was your mother and Perversity begot you; Mischief was your midwife, Misrule your nurses, and Unreason brought you up at her feet—neither ancestry and rearing had you."

DEATHS RECORDED IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

The Department of Commerce, through the Bureau of the Census, announces that during the year 1920, 9,103 deaths resulting from accidents caused by automobiles and other motor vehicles, excluding motorcycles, were recorded within the death-registration area of the United States, which area contains 82 per cent of the total population. This number represents a death rate of 10.4 per 100,000 population, as against 9.4 in 1919, 9.1 in 1918, 8.9 in 1917, 7.3 in 1916, and 5.8 in 1915. Between 1915 and 1920, therefore, the death rate per 100,000 population from motor-vehicle accidents and injuries increased by about four-fifths.

The actual number of deaths resulting from motor-vehicle accidents in the 25 states from which data for 1915 are available increased from 3,571 in that year to 7,433 in 1920, the rate of increase being 108.1 per cent. During the same period, according to data obtained from the Bureau of Public Roads, of the Department of Agriculture, the number of registrations of automobiles, motor trucks, and commercial motor vehicles in the same states increased from 1,767,055 to 6,085,150, the rate of increase being 244.4 per cent. The death rate 1,000 motor vehicles in use in the 25 states in question decreased from 2 in 1915 to 1.2 in 1920, being only three-fifths as great in the later as in the earlier year.

In Minnesota there were 178 deaths in 1920, 171 in 1919, 183 in 1918, 161 in 1917, 443 in 1916, 86 in 1915.

New York, with a larger number of cars, had 1410 deaths in 1920, 1,354 in 1919, 1240 in 1918, 1084 in 1917, 836 in 1916, 692 in 1915.

Delaware smallest state, had 23 deaths in 1920 and 23 in 1919.

In the statistics regarding cities St. Paul had 30 deaths in 1920, 23 in 1919, 27 in 1918, 24 in 1917, 31 in 1916 and 9 in 1915.

Minneapolis had 41 deaths in 1920, 38 in 1919, 43 in 1918, 43 in 1917, 33 in 1916, 26 in 1915.

Chicago ran in this rates for the year: given above, 472, 328, 291, 413, 243, 212.

New York, not counting the five boroughs of Bronx, Brooklyn, Manhattan, Queens and Richmond had for the years named, 773 in 1920, 780 in 1919, 691 in 1918, 549 in 1917, 432 in 1916 and 354 in 1915.

Paradise of Savagery

New Guinea Woman and Baby.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

Perhaps it is logical enough that less should be known about the largest heavily inhabited island in the world—New Guinea—than about the smaller and more easily traversed lands of the sea, especially since it lies, like the neighboring continent of Australia, near the antipodes of the western world, far from the beaten track.

This island has come into notice recently through the action of the League of Nations in giving to Australia the mandate for its northeastern quarter, formerly a colonial possession of Germany. It is probable, too, that it may be one of the subjects of discussion when the problems of the Pacific are taken up in Washington.

Except for a fringe of a few widely separated settlements and mission stations along the coasts, New Guinea (or Papua, to give it its native name) is a paradise of savagery. Probably in no other area of equal extent in the world has civilization made so light an imprint. In the interior of the great island heads are hunted as in smaller regions elsewhere, cannibal feasts are held, savage dialects are spoken innocent of any modification by civilized language, primitive weapons are used, and there is practically no contact with and no knowledge of the outside world.

Origin of Papuans Unknown.

The origin of the "oriental negroes" of Papua is an unsolved problem to ethnologists. On most of the islands to the east and north and toward Asia, straight-haired, relatively fair Malays are found. But the Papuans are black, woolly-haired negroes like the natives of the far-away Guinea coast of western Africa. It was this resemblance between the inhabitants of Papua and Guinea that gave the island its more common name among westerners. Though the Papuan race is distinct, and though large numbers of the pure stock exist on the island, the negro strain has also been mixed with Malayan blood, resulting in numerous racial gradations.

The natives of the southeastern part of the island may be said to hark back to the days of their arboreal, pre-human ancestors, for they live in rude leaf and straw-thatched hovels which they construct in trees. Though this custom of tree-dwelling is not followed to any great extent in other portions of New Guinea, the natives of the island all seem determined to live well off the ground. The favorite habitations throughout a large part of the country are constructed on high piles. On the protected ground beneath these structures the culinary operations are usually carried on. Many of the buildings are long, narrow communal affairs, housing a score or more of natives. In many cases these habitations are merely dark tunnels, but in others they are divided into compartments. Clothing bothers the Papuans but little, but they give much attention to painting and tattooing their bodies, and to bedecking themselves with neck, nose and ear ornaments.

Odd Native Customs.

There is very little furniture in Papuan dwellings to be shifted about by the "lady of the house" on cleaning day. Important among the few movable are hard narrow wooden blocks, scooped out to fit the neck—"pillows" which would hardly appeal to westerners as substitutes for their soft down-filled cushions.

Some of the tribes near the coast have a passion for bathing, so great that they impute a love of the water to the spirits of their departed tribesmen. To facilitate "spirit bathing," surviving relatives and friends carefully construct and keep open paths leading from each grave to the sea. When they are not dining on choice cuts from some enemy tribesman, Papuans eat in the main a prosaic enough diet of bananas, yams, sago, breadfruit and the meats of various animals and fish. But as choice tidbits, some of the tribes eat certain insects and the meat of the world's largest clam. The shells of these huge bivalves often weigh 500 pounds, and the meat alone 20 pounds.

Religiously, New Guinea is a mixture, just as it is politically. Mohammedanism has a slight foothold on the west coast, due to the contact of the tribes there with the Mohammedans of the islands extending off toward Asia. Christian missions are located at intervals along the coast all around the island, but the number of natives so far Christianized is small. On some of the tiny islands lying in the strait between New Guinea and Australia entire communities of Christians are to be found. Throughout most of the huge island, however, paganism is rampant, the natives propitiating supposed evil spirits and the forces of nature.

Because New Guinea is so far from countries with whose size we are familiar, we are likely to consider its extent rather vague. If the island could be laid down along our Atlantic coast we would soon appreciate its vastness. It is approximately 1,500 miles long, and would reach from the southern tip of Florida to the northernmost point on the coast of Maine. Its 400 miles of width would cover two-thirds the distance of Bermuda. The area of the island is close to 300,000 square miles, and it is supposed to have about 1,000,000 inhabitants.

History of the Island.

New Guinea was discovered more than half a century before Australia was first sighted; but while the latter has come to have a population of 5,000,000 white people, and is the seat of an important, modern Christian government, the former is still almost the undisputed domain of savagery. The Dutch laid the first claim to territory in the island, but confined their operations to the western end. In 1884 the British established a protectorate over the southwestern portion of the country, and the Germans annexed the northeastern part the same year. The three countries agreed on boundaries in 1885, but their partition of the land was almost wholly an action on paper, for there had been little exploration of the interior. Each country in the years since has established a few trading and mission posts and plantations in the coast country and has set up the skeleton of a government, whose functioning, however, has had little effect in the interior.

The British portion of Papua has had the status of a territory of the federal government of Australia since 1906, and the recent action of the League of Nations in placing the former German New Guinea in Australian hands under mandate gives that commonwealth control of a little over half of the island's total area.

Strange Animal Life.

The animal life of the world's biggest tropical island, like that of neighboring Australia, is strange and bizarre in western eyes. In ancient geologic ages Papua and Australia were connected. Apparently for millions of years they have been separated entirely from the rest of the world, so that their animal types are a survival from the remote past. With the exception of the pig, which probably was brought from Asia relatively recently, all of the mammals of New Guinea are either marsupials which carry their young in pockets, like the opossum and the kangaroo, or are beasts that lay eggs like birds.

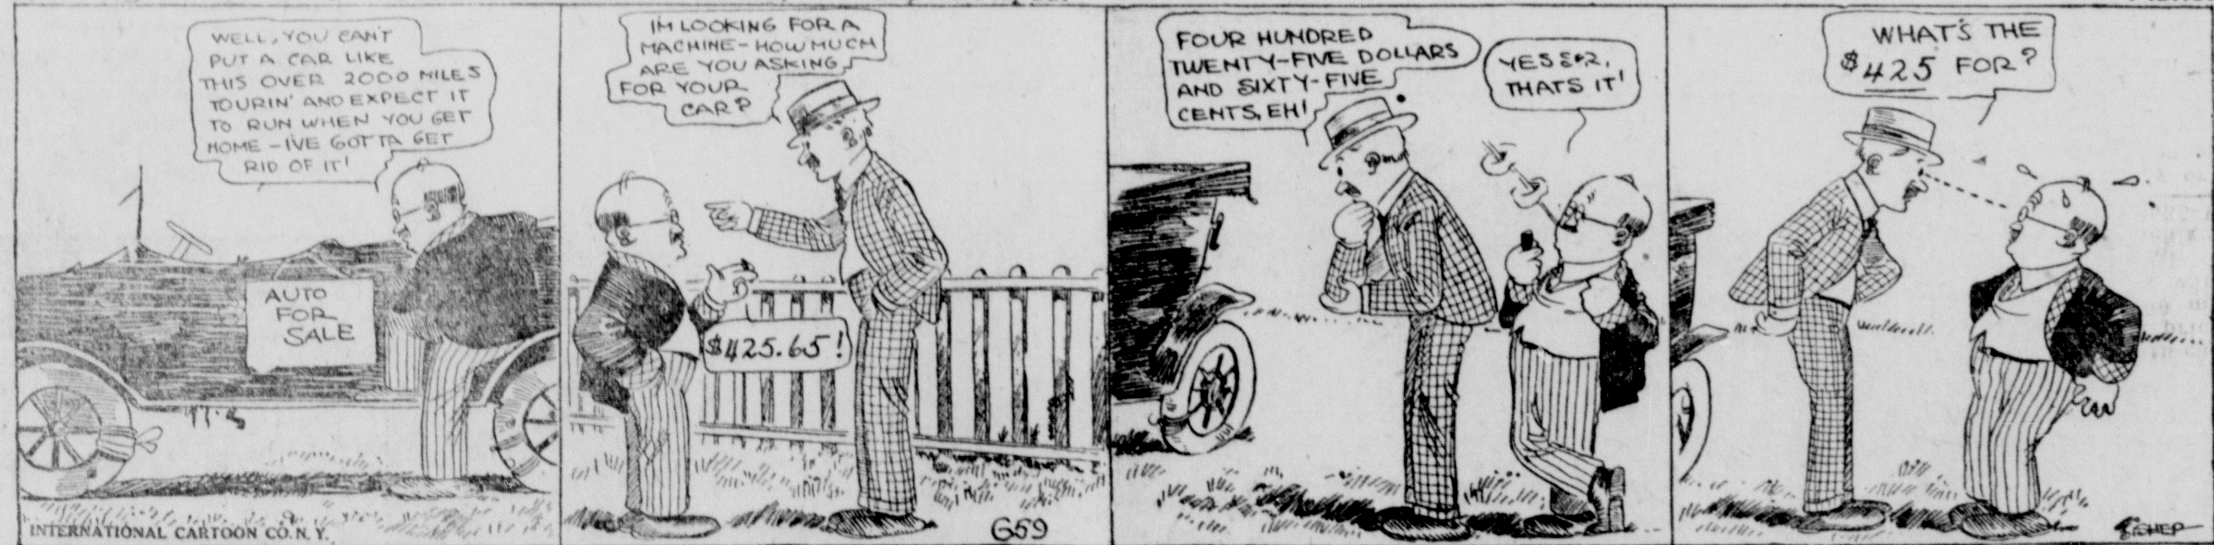

What New Guinea lacks in beasts of the field it makes up in birds of the air. As the home of hundreds of species of feathered creatures, it is more favored than many other portions of the earth's surface. Its dense tropical forests are alive with them—birds of almost every conceivable size and shape and of a bewildering combination of colors. Most striking of the many birds that count New Guinea their home is the gorgeously colored and beautifully formed bird-of-paradise. Most interesting is the romantic and ingenious bower-bird, which builds a "pleasure dome" solely as a place for its love-making.
